P R E F A C E

The General Conference Department of Education coordinates the educational work of the Seventh-day Adventist Church from a global perspective. World Patterns of Seventh-day Adventist Education is the only description of the church educational system by countries. A United Nations list of 218 countries has been used.

This sixth edition of World Patterns has grouped in each country secondary and tertiary schools, and uses the official name in the language of the country, as it appears on all legal documents. (Non-English names can be traced to the SDA Yearbook by using the latter's General Index at the back of the book. Sharp's Glossary should be used for translating unfamiliar non-English educational terms). Curricula and credentials required for teaching in SDA schools are described as far as possible even where these are not obtainable within the SDA system in the country. This document will be updated from time to time.

School entrance age is 6 unless otherwise indicated. An underlined initial means the program is government recognized. The division of the General Conference to which a country belongs is indicated in parentheses according to the code given under "Abbreviations and Symbols."

Staffing of colleges and complete secondary schools can be found in the SDA Yearbook. Statistical information about staff, enrollments, library holdings, and graduates can be found in the current World Report. Specialization in complete secondary schools is often indicated in the Remarks column as well as in the World Report.

The department wishes to express appreciation to the division directors of education, the World Education series of AACRAO (American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers), and publications of the US Department of Education and embassies of the countries described. Many specializations in the countries are not found in this volume but are given in full in some of latter sources which have been cited.

The reliability of the information supplied is conditioned not only by the sources but by constant changes in the educational systems of the world. Readers are requested to supply needed corrections that come to their attention.

PLACEMENT RECOMMENDATIONS

Generally speaking, students who qualify for university entrance in their own countries may be considered for admission to universities in another country (e.g. college freshman in USA). However, the selection for quality performance may be determined on the basis of better than average transcript grades, as well as reading/speaking/writing ability in the language used as medium of instruction in the new setting, and possible need to make up laboratory experience in secondary school science subjects.

Some advanced standing may be granted in certain subjects to students transferring from a 13-year secondary program into a system feeding on 11- and 12-year graduates. The 13-year graduate can normally attain the first degree in three years in his own country. Transfer credit may be granted for Commonwealth GCE A-level passes and for other European-type 13th-year specialized upper-secondary subjects designed to lead into three-year college degrees.

On the other hand students coming from a 10th or 11th year primary/secondary program may find it difficult to compete even if no question is raised about admission.

For this edition of World Patterns detailed placement recommendations from earlier AACRAO volumes have been updated with simpler statements based on AACRAO's 1988 book. They are mostly limited to credentials required for transfer to the USA from schools listed in this edition of World Patterns. For a broader list of credentials from other types of schools in a given country, see the references listed at the foot. The NAFSA book indexed as G84 contains recommendations for placement of graduate students.

-	No Adventist schooling at this level in curriculum indicated
U	Underlined - Government-recognized program
WT	Worker Training Program
X	Extension program or affiliated program; degree conferred by mother institution.
.	Exit point in a ladder-type curriculum

Comments under Remarks indicate that references on that line lead to an examination/certificate/diploma/degree earned at end of a program. If more than one is listed following ladder-type curriculum, the first one is earned at the first exit point, indicated by a period.

CATEGORIES OF SDA SCHOOLS

The categories of individual schools are given following their names. At times one school may be operating two or more levels of education, and these are also indicated. These categories are based on national systems as they are related to their own national post-secondary requirements for admission to higher education institutions either directly or by officially-recognized examinations. Such terms as "college," "university," "institute," or "seminary" have varying meanings in different countries.

Category	Description of Schools

AACRAO (1979): Primary and secondary education can be accepted on a year-by-year basis. Special tests may be helpful in placement. Admission to first-year standing in USA colleges and universities may be granted to candidates who present 5 or more Ordinary ("O") level GCE passes (generally at one and the same sitting) with proper distribution of subjects (including English, a natural science and three others selected from: a second language, mathematics, science or social studies). (Two "O" level grades of D or E may be equated to one pass for transfer to USA.) Possible college credit may be granted for Advanced ("A") level examinations up to ten semester hours per individual subject passed at that level. (An O grade on "A" level certificate may be counted as an "O" level pass.)

The students can choose between the combination German/English/French and German/English/Spanish. The school has been approved by the State of Hesse Ministry of Education and is now in the process of accreditation. The final examinations are being held externally until this accreditation has been granted. Only students who have finished the 10th year of school (Mittlere Reife) are accepted in this course.

NAFSA (G84), CI (1986): (a) The Reifezeugnis or Abitur is recommended for admission to colleges and universities in the USA. Advanced standing credit, not in excess of one academic year, may be granted in subject matter completed with good quality which is appropriate to the baccalaureate program to be undertaken in the USA. Outstanding students may merit higher placement than suggested above. Students with poor records may be given lower placement. (b) NADOR: Andrews University accepts the Abitur plus 3-year ministerial course for admittance to the SDA Theological Seminary for the M.Th. program, and to the School of Graduate Studies for the M.A. in Religion (The student does not earn a USA B.S., but is considered to have its equivalent). If a Marienhoehe ministerial graduate wishes a USA B.A. degree, he should have the Abitur, and then be granted college credit course by course to apply on USA requirements, filling in gaps where short in meeting specific requirements.

Advanced standing for the Baccalaureat II Technique examination will depend on analysis of records, experience, and placement procedures. If the preparation is suitable for the curricula students expect to follow, being comparable to those in colleges or universities in the USA, it is recommended that they be granted credit on the basis of subject-by-subject evaluation. If necessary, placement examinations may be required.

High School Diploma

High School Diploma

AACRAO, NAFSA (N80): Students with the Philippine High School Diploma may be considered for freshman college admission as are exceptional U.S. students, if the student scored at the 75th percentile or above on the NCEE or if academic record and test results indicate exceptional ability. Otherwise, placement in grade 11 or 12 may be indicated. One year and preferably two years of general arts courses at Philippine college level is recommended for average students before being admitted to first-year college standing and transfer credit in USA colleges and universities. In the case where an eleven-year pattern (7 elementary) is documented, the result of a careful evaluation of the transcript may warrant college admission.

Bachillerato Superior exams.
Necessary pre-univ. course for univ entrance, after a "prueba de selectividad" (univ. entr. exam.) If over 25 may enter university by examination.

AACRAO (1975), CI (1986): A student who has completed the Bachillerato Superior may be admitted to USA 12th grade level. He must also complete the Curso de Orientacion Adventiaria (COU) with grades of "sobresaliente" or "notable" to qualify for admission into first-year standing in USA colleges and universities, with appropriate placement by examinations in individual subjects. (Note: [from Division] I suppose this has nothing to do with our denominational policies, but it seems a very harsh position. In Spain, only a very, very small percentage of COU students can complete their course with a grade of "sobresaliente" or "notable." Only about 50% of the students enrolled in the course even pass at all, and anyone passing even with a minimum average--5.0 over 10.0--is allowed to take the University Entrance Exam. At our school, 100% of the COU students who passed all their subjects in June 1991 also passed the University Entrance Exams, although the national level is much lower--around 50%. We should think that anyone passing COU at all should be allowed to enter into first-year standing at a USA college or university.)
